

Flowers are dioecious; both genders are cream-colored and urn shaped.

Interior of male flower. No picture of female yet.

Leaves simple and alternate; ovate with entire margins; fall color varies from yellow to reddish purple.

Buds are dark and teardrop-shaped, with two scales; stems also dark, glabrous or pubescent.

Fruit is an orange berry topped by a persistent calyx. Fruit is very astringent until exposed to frost.

Yiesla's Plant E-Flashcard ©Sharon Yiesla

Produced by Sharon Yiesla, Horticultural Services

Diospyros virginiana

Persimmon (page 2 of 2)

The mature form of the tree is oval to rounded.

Height: 40-60 feet.

Fall color is yellow to reddish-purple.

Mature bark is very blocky.

